BALLOTS AT PAPAL CONCLAVE CONCEAL IDENTITY OF VOTERS

The ballot used at the papal conclave is particularly devised so as to conceal the identity of the elector and to conceal his vote. At each session one vote is taken, and then if no candidate has received the necessary two-thirds vote recourse is often had to the form of voting known as "accessus"—practically a second ballot.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF DR. SIMON AS RABBI

The first form, but adds to the middle part: "Accedo nemini" (I change to lead one).
If, however, he desires to make a change he uses No. 2, which is exactly like No. 1, except that in the middle part the formula to be filled in reads: "Accedo R. D. Meo D. Card. (Change to lead one). Then this ballot is folded in a manner similar to the first.

The second form of ballot must bear the same "Nomen" and "Signa" as the first. If it does not do so the vote is void. The "Signa" rather than the "Nomen" decides the identification.

Dr. Henry Janney, secretary of the house of deputies. With Tennessee leading the way on January 18, delegates from the dioceses of western New York, Pittsburgh, Erie, Maryland, southern Virginia, West Virginia, Washington, southern Ohio, Chicago, Indianapolis, Quincy, northern Indiana, Fond du Lac, Alabama, Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, west Missouri, Arkansas, Dallas, Texas, west Texas, Los Angeles, Oregon and the missionary districts of Oklahoma, north Texas and San Joaquin.

The last of the delegates will have been returned to Dr. Anstice for his preliminary roll of the convention.

Forty-Seventh General Convention.

This 1922 gathering will be the forty-seventh general convention of the church since its organization in Philadelphia, September 27, 1875. Not more than a score of delegates were present on that occasion. The Portland convention will bring together bishops, clergy and prominent laymen from sixty-nine dioceses and thirty-three domestic and foreign missionary districts from continental United States as well as from Alaska, Latin America, China, Japan and the islands of the Pacific and the American churches in Europe.

Meeting at a critical period in the world's history, it will be one of the most important general gatherings of the church that has been held since its organization. The convention under the constitution is divided into two bodies—the house of bishops and the house of deputies. In the house of deputies, composed of clerical and lay representatives from all the dioceses and missionary districts, on a basis of four clerical and four lay deputies for each diocese and one cleric and one layman from each of the missionary districts and the American churches in Europe.

There will be a total of 525 in attendance. In the house of deputies, composed of clerical and lay representatives from all the dioceses and missionary districts, on a basis of four clerical and four lay deputies for each diocese and one cleric and one layman from each of the missionary districts and the American churches in Europe.
